PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—The weather is unsettled. There was more rain last night. The gale yesterday caused several vessels to drag their anchors and foul, and many at the piers were quite severely chafed, but no serious injuries resulted. A plunger caught outside the Heads was capsized. The firemen in her were fortunately rescued by the tug Wizard which was coming into the harbor.

The price of greenbacks is unchanged.

The benefit to the family of Buislay, the dead aeronaut, at the City Gardens yesterday was a complete failure, owing to the inclemency of the weather. They now appeal to the public for subscriptions to relieve their necessities.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—The U. S. war vessel Narragansett is being rapidly fitted out to resume her surveying expedition to the mouth of the Gulf of California.

Mr. Parker, a passenger on the Legal Tender from Tahiti, just arrived, reports that the ship Lloyd, from Liverpool for this port, was burned at sea, 1,400 miles from Marquesas Islands. Captain [illegible] and crew were picked up and brought to Marquesas by the Greyhound, from San Francisco.

The G[illegible] Trotting Race.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—Entries for the race to harness, advertised by the Bay District Fair Grounds Association for [illegible] Nov. 7, 1874, closed Saturday evening, [illegible] the following nominations: N. J. Smith names br. g. Occident; A. O. Hickox, ch. g. Judge Fullerton; Budd Doble, b. g. Gloster; J. A. Williams, br. g. Chicago. There was considerable excitement on the announcement of the entries. There is pretty free betting between the friends of Occident and the backers of Fullerton and Gloster.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—The case of Harbor Commissioner, J. J. Marks, has gone over the term in the Municipal Court, on account of the illness of Attorney General Love.

The weather to-night is clear and pleasant.

At last accounts, Charles Stoddard, who was thrown from a buggy and received supposed fatal injuries, was alive, but small hope of his recovery.

One thousand one hundred men are engaged on the Palace Hotel at the present time.

The Consolidated Virginia has sent down $225,000 during the month, and is expected to produce $500,000.

The Pacific Mail [illegible] or Tokio was expected to leave New York for Aspinwall to-day. Upon her return from New York she will be loaded and sent to this port to assume her place in the China line in connection with the City of Pekin.

No further entries have yet been announced for the great $25,000 running race, to come off November 14th, at the Bay District Fair track. The Oregon horse Foster was the last named.

The steamer Colorado, for Hongkong and Yokohama, will sail on the 31st.

A FAIR CRITIC.

A writer in the Literary World says: "On board a steamboat lately the writer happened to sit near a young lady to whom he was attracted by her evident absorption in a book she held, to say nothing of certain physical allurements, to wit: Opulence of auburn hair adj[illegible] with modest grace; item, a pair of turquoise blue eyes, frequently lifted from the book; item, a pair of very white and shapely ungloved hands. A quick glance at the volume possessed him of its name, and an indefinable but [illegible] social instinct led him to ask if she found 'Man and Wife' very interesting. She answered promptly that she did, but confessed that it was her habit to skip certain passages 'like this,' she explained, indicating with one of those long, fine fingers two or three columns of solid type, unbroken by paragraphs or quotation marks. The conversation sped on in literary paths—not very lofty and difficult ones, to be sure, yet safe and pleasant; and at last the blonde stranger began to divulge her private literary likings. 'I like Miss Brandon's books so much,' she said, the white fingers of her two hands rushing into a musical embrace, as if to attest the devotedness of her adoration, and the blue eyes glancing upwards, as if that way lay Miss Brandon's home. Brandon or Braddon, there's but the difference of a letter, and the fact that she made the mistake proves that she is not very familiar with that author's writings. Let us take courage; she may like Braddon, but no doubt it is a means of rare literary dissipation; her tastes, of course abide in higher regions, and descend only occasionally. Soon she pronounced the name of one of our own writers—a lady who writes out of the purity of a large, warm heart—pronounced the name with earnest praise. This atoned for Miss Brandon, but only for a moment; for being interrogated she admitted that she had not read any of this lady's writings, but had seen her as a summer visitor in her own place of residence. But a severe shock was pending. Pursuing the revelation of her literary preference, she said, with an enthusiasm [illegible] the sight of which would have made Miss Braddon grow green with jealousy, 'But I like Mrs. Southworth best of all!' The charm was broken; the sunlight faded from the auburn hair and left it dull and downy; the blue eyes dwindled to points, and from the long hands cutting the air on a voyage of emphasis was exhaled the unmistakable odor of peanuts."

THE TILTON INDICTMENT.

The publication of the indictment against Mr. Tilton and Mr. Moulton made a [illegible] impression upon the Brooklyn community. The argument made in Mr. Tilton's card in the Herald that Mr. Beecher's action was a "tardy indictment," is controverted. A distinguished m[illegible] of Plymouth Church, in commenting on this, said to your reporter:

"This indictment was as promptly found as was humanly possible. Tilton has been indicted by the first grand jury that has sat in Kings county since the publication of his libelous statement, addressed to the public over his own name. The publication of his sworn statement, Mr. Tilton averred, and no doubt Maverick will so swear, was without his knowledge or consent, and the Gaynor farce was met by that plea. The accusation in Plymouth Church by West was for slander, which is not an indictable offense, not for libel, which is the publication of slander. So that on the first indictable offense Tilton was indicted at the first opportunity, which is prompt enough."

The array of counsel in the Tilton case will be unusually large. Probably no such array has been seen in any trial since the trial of General Sickles for the murder of Key. Roscoe Conkling has accepted a retainer and will sum up the case. William M. Evarts, B. F. Tracy, John K. Porter, W. O. Bartlett, John Graham and T. S. Sherman will assist Mr. Conkling. The list of Mr. Tilton's counsel is said not to be complete. Senator Carpenter, of Wisconsin, Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, and David Dudley Field are mentioned. Mr. Moulton has secured Judge Fullerton, although Gen. Butler will take the lead in the case and personally appear. Mr. Beach will most likely appear also.

A motion will be made for a change of venue. This is a matter in the discretion of the Court. A motion will be made for a certiorari to carry the case before the Supreme Court. This, we believe, is a motion of right, and an effort will then be made to remove the case to Albany or Westchester. It is thought the trial will take place in a fortnight, and it will probably last for three or four weeks.

A rumor was in circulation, and traced to a good source, that President Grant had expressed the strongest interest in behalf of Mr. Beecher and to the President's interest is attributed the retainer of Mr. Conkling. It is generally believed also, that Mr. Tilton himself will address the jury in his own behalf. Mr. Tilton has a rare gift of eloquence, and he will have this privilege.—N. Y. Herald, Oct. 5th.

WALL OR WILL?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Among other inevitable changes which Time brings, beside the aches and pains unfelt in robuster youth, is a constant change in the orthography of familiar words, and this to some is not the least annoyance forced upon their attention, by an unwelcome, because more youthful, age. There are some who cling to an obsolete ther and nither, in spite of a conscious pedantry of sound. In the olden time, many clung to the u, in Saviour, deeming its removal not only a stumbling block and a wicked innovation. As years increase it is such changes that convince us of the instability of earthly things. Is not this disposition to leave the old landmarks of orthography, evidence, hitherto overlooked by theologians, of natural depravity? For myself I cannot fix the guilt clearly on either the present or the past. I can scarcely tell whether our ears or their tongues be most in fault. But so it is that changing taste and all but universal custom are in the habit of interfering with orthography, with accent, or with pronunciation, in the most arbitrary way. With personal knowledge since 1846, I can readily endorse the statements of such respectable authorities as His Honor Judge Deady and Archbishop Blanchet. The orthography of our beautiful river, long ago, was usually Wallamet. But to be wise, it is sometimes necessary that a man be capable of forgetting, in order that he may learn. Of late years, say for twenty or more, that orthography has not been customary nor usual, except now and then, in the case of a man with prodigious memory, dwelling fondly on the custom of a distant past.

In regard to the etymology of the word, I am not aware that we have any definite or conclusive knowledge, and in the matter of pronunciation, I am rather in favor of the modern school. The past did not consult us in matters of orthography or pronunciation, and I do not see that it has any rights in the premises which we are bound to respect, unless our judgment fully concur. In that, we are like the Web-Foot girl, who, disagreeing with Pater Familias, on the disposition of heart and hand, floored the old gentleman by the remark, "Well, Pap, you never asked me about marrying Ma, you did as you pleased, and so will I."

Old settlers have heard it pronounced many different ways, some of them ridiculous, of course. But the sound employed by far the greatest number may be found in the letters W'll, without the aid of either vowel a or i. I do not think the Indians accented the word either Wall or Will, but used a softer sound between the two. But at this date, if a man desires to set up as a Purist, on Indian accent, and is in earnest, I do not think we should feel hard at him about it. Let him indulge his own taste in the matter.

INDEPENDENT CONVENTION AT TACOMA.

At the "People's Convention," held in New Tacoma, Pierce county, W. T., Oct. 24, 1874, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Through a combination of political tricksters, composed of both Democrats and Republicans, the people of this county were defrauded out of a just representation in convention; and,

WHEREAS, By the influence of moneyed corporations, and the free use of money in corrupting the primaries, the will of the people was defeated, and persons placed in nomination for office whose election would be detrimental to the best interests of the people of Pierce county; and,

WHEREAS, It has be[illegible] apparent to every American citizen of Pierce county that our inherent rights have been shamefully trampled upon by those unscrupulous and corrupt office seekers, we deem it the duty of every freeman to raise his voice, that it may be heard in thunder tones, "Vox populi, vox Dei." Be it therefore

Resolved, 1. That as the only means of hurling from power an unscrupulous set of political leeches, and thereby securing to the people honest and undesigning men in office, we lay aside all party names and affiliations, and sever the cord that has hitherto bound us down to party usages.

Resolved, 2. That we look with alarm upon the interference of moneyed corporations in the political affairs of the country.

Resolved, 3. That we scorn the support of any man or party that is guilty of corrupting primaries or elections, by the lavish use of money, thereby biasing the minds and defrauding the will of an unsuspecting community.

Resolved, 4. That we heartily endorse all nominations of good men, made by either party; and only interpose our opposition to unworthy men and unholy causes.

The Convention then nominated the following:

PEOPLE'S TICKET.

For Joint Councilman, James Smith, of Chehalis county; Joint Representative, —— Watkinson, of Mason county; Representative, Wm. B. Kelly; Sheriff, J. Smith; Auditor, John Latham; Treasurer, Wm. Voigt; Superintendent of Schools, John V. Meeker; Probate Judge, S. S. White; County Commissioners, B. M. Spining, F. C. Miller, A. Walters; Surveyor, J. V. Meeker; Coroner, Samuel Roberts.

On motion, the Secretary was ordered to furnish the OREGONIAN a copy of the proceedings of the Convention, with a request that they be published.

Respectfully submitted,

W. GUESS, Secretary.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Walla Walla Spirit, of the 23d, says: "The sudden death of R. P. Olds, an old and highly esteemed influential citizen of this county, who died at his residence near Waitsburg on Tuesday, the 20th, from hemorrhage caused by having a tooth extracted, has caused a wide-spread feeling of gloom throughout the entire community in which he had lived for so many years."

A terrible accident occurred near the upper crossing of the Touchet on Tuesday of last week. A little child of Mr. Smally, aged six years, during the father's absence at Wallula, was playing near some burning brush, when its clothes caught fire, and before any assistance in extinguishing the flames could reach the spot the child was so badly burned that death ensued the following day.

A serious accident occurred at Cram's valley, between Walla Walla and Waitsburg, on Wednesday last. A Mr. McFarland, who resides near the latter place, was riding in a buggy, accompanied by his wife and other members of his family, when from some cause his team took fright and ran away. In his endeavors to check the horses, Mr. McFarland was thrown forward and out of the buggy, both of the wheels passing over his head and injuring him very severely.

On the evening of Saturday, the 17th inst., Levi Leland commenced a course of lectures at Dayton, W. T., by invitation of the Orders of Good Templars and the Red Cross. He drew a full house on each occasion, and the temperance friends subscribed for 15 Temperance Advocates and 50 Temperance Banners, besides collecting $22 for the Order, presenting the Hermit with $25 for himself, and doing sundry and divers things to show their appreciation of the cause and the lecturer. On the 20th Mr. Leland proceeded on his way rejoicing toward Colfax and Lewiston, I. T.

At Dixie school-house, Walla Walla county, Tuesday evening, October 14th, Levi Leland organized a Lodge of Good Templars with 19 charter members. The following are officers elected for the remainder of the present quarter: George Cantonwine, W. C. T.; Miss N. L. Miles, W. V. T.; Mrs. Mary Pettibone, P. W. C. T.; Mrs. Mary Cantonwine, W. C.; W. T. McKern, W. S. and L. D.; Miss C. Buchanan, W. A. S.; Mrs. E. A. Gilliam, W. F. S.; Mrs. M. A. Cornwell, W. T.; Wesley Cantonwine, W. M.; John Van Brook, W. D. M.; Miss Clara Junkin, W. R. THE VON ARNIM PAPERS.

PRINCIPAL AND PUNGENT POINTS OF THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THE VON ARNIM-BISMARCK-DOLLINGER CORRESPONDENCE.

[From the New York Herald.]

The series of German State documents which the Emperor William and Prince Bismarck are so anxious to recover from Count Von Arnim or from his friends in Germany or abroad contain the instructions which were despatched by Bismarck to Count Von Arnim in reply to despatches the Prince Chancellor received from the Count when the latter filled the office of Prussian Minister in Rome. The contents of these letters go to show that Bismarck, in 1869, did not meditate, by any means, hostility to the Catholic clergy, but that he feared the assemblage of the Vatican Council, and entertained the opinion that Prussia and the German peoples were likely to be affected injuriously in their social interests by its decrees.

Bismarck's Instructions to Von Arnim in Rome.

The first paper in the series, dated May 20, 1869, is in answer to a suggestion made by Count Arnim that the Prussian Government should claim to be represented at the Vatican Council by two delegates (oratores). To this proposal Herr von Bismarck very decidedly refuses his assent. He judges that it would be a serious mistake, and the King (William) shares his apprehension. In the first place, it is not at all likely that the Curia would grant the request to a power which it regards as heretical. Moreover, supposing the two oratores obtained admission to the sittings of the Council, they would be absolutely powerless opposed to the immense majority of bishops. They would be constantly opposed to hostile attacks, occupy a most undignified position, and in the end their presence would do more harm than good; for Prussia having recognized and taken part in the proceedings, would be bound by the resolutions. Even at the time of the Council of Trent, to which Count Von Arnim refers as a precedent, matters stood otherwise. The Curia had not then advanced its present extravagant pretensions; it still recognized the existence of two different spheres, ruled over respectively by the Church and the State. It also recognized a border land where the authority was questionable and had to be determined by compromise, and it even allowed the right of temporal power to interfere in matters ecclesiastic. Since then things have completely changed; but Prussia has not even yet recognized the resolution of the Council of Trent, and will hold equally aloof from the Council of 1870. It has only one rule to guide its action—namely, to allow perfect liberty in ecclesiastical matters, to resist determinedly every pretension conflicting with its prerogative. What the Emperor Napoleon does is utterly immaterial to Prussia. But while M. Bismarck must refuse to interfere with the proceedings of the Council, or to take part in them, he can but approve manif[illegible] tions proceeding from the consciousness of independent power, and serving as warnings to the Curia that its pretensions would not be allowed." Count Arnim is advised "to enter into negotiations for the purpose with the representatives of other German powers, in order that all Germany may appear to act, and really act, in concert."

The second dispatch is dated January 5, 1870. In this document Count Bismarck designates the general condition of things at Rome as so "chaotic" that it is as yet impossible for him to select a proper basis of operation. He does not share the Ambassador's grave apprehensions of national dangers threatening from the action of the Council, because the Prussian government feels itself strong in administration as well as legislation, and is supported by public opinion and national feeling, which would never submit to Papal arrogance. The Ambassador must not forget that the population of Prussia is mainly Protestant, and thereby affords a powerful support to government in its dealings with the Curia in comparison with other Catholic powers. Whatever be the impending change in the relations between Berlin and the Vatican, Berlin will not be the loser. However, Count Bismarck does not anticipate that things will come to this extreme pass. The organism of the Roman Catholic Church affords a good basis for a mutual understanding, and he hopes it will not be changed. He must still decidedly decline to interfere in the proceedings of the Council. Such interference would be difficult and ineffective. France is on the side of the Curia, England, Russia and Italy are not diplomatically represented. No action in concert is possible with the Austrian Minister. What weight would an "anti-council" of diplomatic representatives such as Count Arnim proposes should be held contemporaneously with the Ecumenical Council carry with it if composed only of the Ministers of North Germany, Bavaria (not representing the other South German States) and Portugal! None at all. No; the resistance to the Papal pretensions must be left to the German bishops alone. Count Arnim is directed to encourage and support them, to indicate to them the position which Prussia takes up, and if he can strengthen this influence by enlisting the Bavarian and Portuguese Ministers in the same cause, so much the better. The German bishops in resisting the Curia will be sure of the government's sympathy, and also of its eventual support and protection. The government on its part will not allow itself to be shaken from its attitude of quiet and dignified neutrality. If the Holy See thinks good to alter its relations with it the government can afford to rely on its own strength for the future.

The same opinions and instructions are expressed in the third dispatch, dated March 13, 1870. Count Bismarck notes with satisfaction the entente previously between the German and the Austrian bishops, and recognizes their right to protest against the application of the vote to dogmatic differences; but it is for the bishops to fight it out with the Curia. The Prussian Government cannot go a step further than the bishops themselves go. As far as they go they may count on Prussian support. The government will protect them from any temporal prejudice arising from their dissentient vote. If any temporal governments were to interfere it would be for Roman Catholic governments to do so. As they do not choose to interfere Protestant Prussia has not the slightest occasion for such a course.

Von Arnim's Letter to Dr. Dollinger.

We publish underneath the text of a celebrated letter which was addressed by Count Von Arnim to Dr. Dollinger at Munich. The knowledge of its contents caused much excitement in Berlin.

PARIS, April 21, 1873.

MOST VENERABLE SIR—The North German Gazette published some days since a report drawn up by me in May, 1869, which did not escape your notice. To my regret the object with which this publication was made did not permit the suppression of those passages which contained the name of Your Excellency. I am, therefore, compelled to ask your pardon for having incidentally, in 1869, made a reference to you in a fashion which did not allow me fully to express my respect for you. You will then more readily forgive me when you recollect that at the period referred to I had not the honor of knowing you. It is said that the report of May, 1869, is a contradiction to the views expressed in a memorial of mine published by the Presse of Vienna. I may observe that I did not seek for the appearance of that publication. I have a copy of the memorial, which differs in some respects from the document made public; but it would be absurd for me to say that the document is apocryphal. The alterations were evidently made for the purpose of affecting certain personages. With regard to the discrepancy of my views in 1869 and 1870 it is very trifling. In 1869, also, I attached less importance to the dogma of infallibility than to the manner in which it was brought out. Had the German bishops from the outset declared that Papal infallibility was a self-evident theory, and had consequently no practical value, the governments could not have mixed up in the question. But the attitude of the German and Austrian bishops in the autumn of 1869, and during the Council, made me realize the full importance of the effort of the Holy See. I was convinced that infallibility was more than a precious but empty vase, destined to ornament the Vatican; that it was a box or Pandora which eventually sent forth most dangerous ingredients to the Christian world. Consequently I willingly accept the charge that I profited by my experience from May, 1869, to July, 1870. If I learned anything during that time I am especially indebted to the German bishops, who were good enough to show me the consequences of the dogma. On that occasion a totally useless discussion was also raised in propounding the question whether the dispatch of an ambassador to the Council would have given another turn to affairs. Who can now answer that question? As for me, I persist in thinking that the leaders of the undertaking—at least if they had acted as I advised—would have imitated that hero who went to battle to conquer the world and came home because it rained! I regret above all that the conference opened by the Prince of Hohenlohe did not give rise to more serious negotiations. If the abundant weeds which were cultivated by the Council had been crushed in the bud we should not find ourselves to-day entangled in an incomprehensible maze which brings into question what had long appeared to be the common property of Christianity. Accept, &c., your devoted,

The Count's Defense Against Bismarck's First Attacks.

We are enabled to publish the following letter from Count von Arnim, written after his vacation of the German embassy in Paris, in explanation of his communication to Dr. Dollinger, which created a sensation at the Prussian Court, and caused his retirement from the diplomatic service. It reads as follows:—

BERLIN, May 1, 1873.

Having arrived here from Paris yesterday, I find in the newspapers of the capital a series of articles attacking me on account of a letter which I have addressed to Herr von Dollinger. My official position prevents me from replying to these attacks, but I may, nevertheless, already to-day protest against one charge which is continually being repeated—viz, that of having entered upon a controversy with the responsible director of the German policy. I am surprised at the ingeniousness with which so grave an accusation is publicly made, and is intended to be gradually represented as an undisputed fact. I see myself, therefore, under the necessity to prove, by stating the circumstances of the case, that I have not taken the initiative in engaging in a public controversy, but that I have been forced to throw off the reserve I have hitherto been able to maintain in spite of all provocations, by a publication relating to myself over which I had no influence. In a foreign journal certain documents have been published which have directed the attention of the public to the history of the Council. It is not necessary for me to inquire who has caused this publication; it is enough to say that I have not caused it. Immediately afterward there were published in a Berlin newspaper official documents which completed the disclosures. Up to this point there is nothing extraordinary. In the whole proceeding. The [illegible] at Vienna contain nothing [illegible] ing that could be disagreeable to the directory of the German policy. Just as little can the "instructions" have surprised those who are even only superficially conversant with the diplomatic history of the last few years. As regards the publication of my report of the 14th of May, 1869, the contents of which are entirely confidential, the matter stands somewhat differently. Every one will admit that this publication is opposed to the traditions, not only of Prussian, but of every diplomacy. I affirm this fact without wishing in any way to criticise. To break with traditions may frequently be necessary, and sometimes be useful. It was not necessary for me to judge why it was necessary in this case, and whether it was useful. But there was one special circumstance which obliged me to take notice of this publication. In my report of the 14th of May, 1869, I had written about Herr von Dollinger in a manner which must deeply hurt that estimable person. My arm had, in a manner, been directed to strike a person who has a right to count me among his warmest adherents. Herr von Dollinger could, however, not know whether this movement of my arm was really altogether involuntary on my part. He could, on the contrary, suppose that I had been informed of the intended publication of my confidential report before it was ordered. I owed, therefore reparation to Herr von Dollinger, and I was obliged to leave it to him to make it public as the hurt had been public. Herr von Dollinger has published my letter, and I thank him for it, for it contains nothing which I have ground to recall or to explain why.

The "controversy" with the responsible leader of Germany's policy has been "read into the letter," and not "out of it." I shall return to this point on another occasion. For to-day it suffices to affirm that I have not come publicly forward to discuss politics. I have been forced to come forward in person to explain my conduct to a man whom I greatly venerate.

Accept the assurance of my most perfect esteem.

THE ALABAMA OUTRAGES.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 8.—The testimony in the Sumter county case closed yesterday. Robert H. Smith, of counsel for the defense, is now making his argument. The decision of the Commissioner will probably be rendered to-morrow.

The evidence is very conflicting; that for the prosecution, except Henry J. Greatlas, Billings' law partner, is colored and the evidence for the defense is part white and part colored. Colored witnesses for the prosecution identified Renfro and Bullock, and swore positively that they were present at and assisted in the killing, along with twenty or twenty-five others.

The witnesses swore they were in the road at the time, and saw the killing. Hillman was not identified, and will probably be discharged. The evidence for Renfro and Bullock to establish an alibi is strong. Several parties swear positively that they were at their respective houses—the nearest nine miles away from the scene—at the time of the killing.

There is a discrepancy about the name of Hillman, he being called in the affidavit and warrant William Hillman, and his true name being Phillip A. Hillman.

The two main witnesses for the prosecution swear that Billings, who was about 35 years old, was killed between sunset and dusk Saturday, August 1, as he was riding along the public road, about one hundred yards from his residence in Sumter county. Both man and horse were killed and found dead Sunday morning. They swear that Renfro came out of the woods and said, with an oath, "Halt" when others rose and fired. Nothing was proven by the prosecution as to the previous threats of the prisoners against Billings.

The prisoners are quiet and respectable-looking young men, and farmers in Sumter county.

About 2:30 P. M. the Commissioner rendered his decision, committing Renfro and Bullock to jail without bail, and discharging Hillman. He refused to enter into the constitutionality of the law, and based his decision upon the fact that while the evidence to [illegible] alibis in the case of Bullock and Renfro was strong, there was testimony enough to justify their committal.

Before this decision was carried into effect, the District Attorney asked the Commissioner to hold Hillman until a new affidavit, charging him with the whipping of Wilson Doyle, could be prepared, and a warrant issued for his arrest. This the Commissioner refused. Subsequently, and while at perfect liberty, Hillman told the United States District Attorney that he would appear at 5 P. M. and give bail to answer this new charge.

A man working for Watson & Luhrs on Birch creek, in their sawmill, chopped off the thumb and forefinger of his right hand the other day with an ax.

Mr. and Mrs. Parvin were going into Eugene City on Thursday of last week, when the hack in which they were riding was upset and the lady was badly bruised.

On the 13th inst., the Tacoma saw mill cut 92,159 feet of lumber, an average of 8,000 feet an hour during the 11½ hours working. The best previous day's work, since the first running of the mill, was eighty-two thousand and a few hundred feet.

John Murray went into the dry goods business at Salem by stealing three dress patterns of Mrs. Durbin and selling them to Mrs. Marshall. John's venture was not a success, as he was caught in it, and will probably help to consume the $25,000 appropriation for penitentiary purposes.

The gold shipped by express from Missoula, Montana, from 1st July, 1873, to 1st July, 1874, was a round hundred thousand dollars. The greenbacks paid therefor by the bank has made the county generally prosperous. Probably from thirty to fifty thousand dollars more went to Walla Walla and other ways out of the county.

The Record says some Goth or Vandal or heathen outsider made off with the marble slab on the Speaker's table, placed there to catch the gavel. Some other man of inquiring mind sailed off with the two-story inkstand of the Assistant Clerk of the House, and it is well enough to have the spittoons counted and see how many are missing. Outside barbarians have a keen eye to public plunder, and it was all the honorable members could do to get away with their scanty perquisites.

The Salem Record of Sunday, says: "Sheriff L. C. Rice, of Linn county, brought down the following convicts yesterday and turned them over to Superintendent Watkins for the terms for which they were severally [illegible] Their names are as follows: W. S. Wilson, six months, for extorting money; Ira Cutting, six months, same offense; Geo. Barkley, three years, for obtaining money under false pretenses; J. W. Fairchild, two years, for larceny; Frank Upts, one year, for larceny.

Hon. W. R. Dunbar, Grand Worthy Chief Templar, organized a Lodge of Good Templars at Hubbard Station, on Friday evening, the 23d inst. The following officers were installed: L. S. Thomas, W. C. T.; Jennie Vann, V. T.; G. W. Dimick, S.; Dongl Dimick, A. S.; M. Jones, F. S.; A. F. Gleason, T.; Minerva A. Dimick, Chaplain; S. M. Roff, M.; E. O. Roff, A. M.; J. A. Dimick, I. G.; Buell Dimick, O. G.; D. Vanderwalker, P. W. C. T.; R[illegible] Vann, R. H. S.; Lizzie Gleason, L. H. S.; Rev. G. W. Dimick, L. D.

From the Salem Record we learn that on last Saturday the prisoners at the Penitentiary were all called up and heavily ironed with the Gardiner shackle and a statement made them by the Superintendent. He informed them that after the first day of November next, he should discharge all the guards but four for the day and one night watch. All brick making would be stopped for the next four years. That they would all be kept in their cells except those whose labor was leased to contractors. The Superintendent stated that he was obliged to take this step owing to the small appropriation allowed him for the next two years.

The Statesman says: "One of the convicts of the Oregon State Penitentiary took a stroll last Friday night, from which up to the time of writing, he has not returned, and so anxious is Superintendent Watkins for his return to home and friends of the last four years that he offers a reward of $100 for his recovery. The walking gentleman's name is Valentine S. Howe, who was furnished apartments at the expense of the State, December 2d, 1870, having been convicted of breaking open a safe in Jackson county. He was sentenced for six years, and his conduct heretofore has been exemplary in the extreme, and was [illegible] among the [illegible] and [illegible] numerous liberties denied his associates."

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—The weather is unsettled. There was more rain last night. The gale yesterday caused several vessels to drag their anchors and foul, and many at the piers were quite severely chafed, but no serious injuries resulted. A plunger caught outside the Heads was capsized. The firemen in her were fortunately rescued by the tug Wizard which was coming into the harbor.

The price of greenbacks is unchanged.

The benefit to the family of Buislay, the dead aeronaut, at the City Gardens yesterday was a complete failure, owing to the inclemency of the weather. They now ap[illegible] to the public for subscriptions to relieve their necessities.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 26.—The case of Harbor Commissioner, J. J. Marks, has gone over the term in the Municipal Court, on account of the illness of Attorney General Love.

No further entries have yet been announced for the great $24,000 running race, to come off November 14th, at the Bay District Fair track. The Oregon horse Foster was the last named.

The steamer Colorado, for Hongkong and Yokohama, will sail on the 31st.

A FAIR CRITIC.

A writer in the Literary World says: "On board a steamboat lately the writer happened to sit near a young lady to whom he was attracted by her evident absorption in a book she held, to say nothing of certain physical allurements, to wit: Opulence of auburn hair adjusted with [illegible] grace; item, a pair of turquoise blue eyes, frequently lifted from the book; item, a pair of very white and shapely ungloved hands. A quick glance at the volume possessed him of its nature, and an indefinable but [illegible] social instinct led him to ask if she found 'Man and Wife' very interesting. She answered promptly that she did, but confessed that it was her habit to skip certain passages 'like this,' she explained, indicating with one of those long, fine fingers two or three columns of solid type, unbroken by paragraphs or quotation marks. The conversation sped on in literary paths—not very lofty and difficult ones, to be sure, yet safe and pleasant; and at last the blonde stranger began to divulge her private literary likings. 'I like Miss Brandon's books so much,' she said, the white fingers of her two hands rushing into a musical embrace, as if to attest the devotedness of her adoration, and the blue eyes glancing upwards, as if that way lay Miss Brandon's home. Brandon or Braddon, there's but the difference of a letter, and the fact that she made the mistake proves that she is not very familiar with that author's writings. Let us take courage; she may like Braddon, but no doubt it is a means of rare literary dissipation; her tastes, of course abide in higher regions, and descend only occasionally. Soon she pronounced the name of one of our own writers—a lady who writes out of the purity of a large, warm heart—pronounced the name with earnest praise. This atoned for Miss Brandon, but only for a moment; for being interrogated she admitted that she had not read any of this lady's writings, but had seen her as a summer visitor in her own place of residence. But a severe shock was pending. F[illegible]ving the revelation of her literary preference, she said, with an enthus[illegible] the sight of which would have made Miss Braddon grow green with jealousy, 'But I like Mrs. Southworth best of all!' The charm was broken: the sunlight faded from the auburn hair and left it dull and dowdy; the blue [illegible] dwindled to points, and from the long hands cutting the air, on a voyage of emphasis was exhaled the unmistakable odor of peanuts."

THE TILTON [illegible]

The publication of the indictment against Mr. Tilton and Mr. Moulton made a dry im-[illegible] in the Brooklyn community. The argument made in Mr. Tilton's card in the Herald that Mr. Beecher's action was a "tardy indictment" is controverted. A distinguished m[illegible] of Plymouth Church, in commenting on this, said to your reporter:

"This indictment was as promptly found as was humanly possible. Tilton has been indicted by the first grand jury that has sat in Kings county since the publication of his libelous statement, addressed to the public over his own name. The publication of his sworn statement, Mr. Tilton averred, and no doubt Maverick will so swear, was without his knowledge or consent, and the Gaynor farce was met by that plea. The accusation in Plymouth Church by West was for slander, which is not an indictable offense, not for libel, which is the publication of slander. So that on the first indictable offense Tilton was indicted at the first opportunity, which is prompt enough."

The array of counsel in the Tilton case will be unusually large. Probably no such array has been seen in any trial since the trial of General Sickles for the murder of Key. Roscoe Conkling has accepted a retainer and will sum up the case. William M. Evarts, B. F. Tracy, John K. Porter, W. O. Bartlett, John Graham and T. S. Sherman will assist Mr. Conkling. The list of Mr. Tilton's counsel is said not to be complete. Senator Carpenter, of Wisconsin, Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, and David Dudley Field are mentioned. Mr. Moulton has secured Judge Fullerton, although Gen. Butler will take the lead in the case and personally appear. Mr. Beach will most likely appear also.

A motion will be made for a change of venue. This is a matter in the discretion of the Court. A motion will be made for a certiorari to carry the case before the Supreme Court. This, we believe, is a motion of right, and an effort will then be made to remove the case to Albany or Westchester. It is thought the trial will take place in a fortnight, and it will probably last for three or four weeks.

A rumor was in circulation, and traced to a good source, that President Grant had expressed the strongest interest in behalf of Mr. Beecher, and to the President's interest is attributed the retainer of Mr. Conkling. It is generally believed also, that Mr. Tilton himself will address the jury in his own behalf. Mr. Tilton has a rare gift of eloquence, and he will have this privilege.—N. Y. Herald, Oct. 5th.

WALL OR WILL?

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Among other inevitable changes which Time brings, beside the aches and pains unfelt in robuster youth, is a constant change in the orthography of familiar words, and this to some is not the least annoyance forced upon their attention, by an unwelcome, because more youthful, age. There are some who cling to an obsolete ither and nither, in spite of a conscious pendantry of sound. In the olden time, many clung to the u in Saviour, deeming its removal not only a stumbling block and a wicked innovation. As years increase it is such changes that convince us of the instability of earthly things. Is not this disposition to leave the old landmarks of orthography, evidence, hitherto overlooked by theologians, of natural depravity? For myself I cannot fix the guilt clearly on either the present or the past. I can scarcely tell whether our ears or their tongues be most in fault. But so it is that changing taste and all but universal custom are in the habit of interfering with orthography, with accent, or with pronunciation, in the most arbitrary way. With personal knowledge since 1846, I can readily endorse the statements of such respectable authorities as His Honor Judge Deady and Archbishop Blanchet. The orthography of our beautiful river, long ago, was usually Wallamet. But to be wise, it is sometimes necessary that a man be capable of forgetting, in order that he may learn. Of late years, say for twenty or more, that orthography has not been customary nor usual, except now and then, in the case of a man with prodigious memory, dwelling fondly on the custom of a distant past.

In regard to the etymology of the word, I am not aware that we have any definite or conclusive knowledge, and in the matter of pronunciation, I am rather in favor of the modern school. The past did not consult us in matters of orthography or pronunciation, and I do not see that it has any rights in the premises which we are bound to respect, unless our judgment fully concur. In that, we are like the Web-Foot girl, who, disagreeing with Pater Familias, on the disposition of heart and hand, floored the old gentleman by the remark, "Well, Pa, you never asked me about marrying Ma; you did as you pleased, and so will I."

Old settlers have heard it pronounced many different ways, some of them ridiculous, of course. But the sound employed by far the greatest number may be found in the letters Will, without the aid of either vowel a or i. I do not think the Indians accented the word either Wall or Will, but used a softer sound between the two. But at this date, if a man desires to set up as a Purist, on Indian accent, and is in earnest, I do not think we should feel hard at him about it. Let him indulge his own taste in the matter.

INDEPENDENT CONVENTION AT TACOMA.

At the "People's Convention," held in New Tacoma, Pierce county, W. T., Oct. 24, 1874, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Through a combination of political tricksters, composed of both Democrats and Republicans, the people of this county were defrauded out of a just representation in convention; and,

WHEREAS, By the influence of moneyed corporations, and the free use of money in corrupting the primaries, the will of the people was defeated, and persons placed in nomination for office whose election would be detrimental to the best interests of the people of Pierce county; and,

WHEREAS, It has bec[illegible] apparent to every American citizen of Pierce county that our inherent rights have been shamefully trampled upon by those unscrupulous and corrupt office-seekers, we deem it the duty of every freeman to raise his voice, that it may be heard in thunder tones, "Vox populi, vox Dei." Be it therefore

Resolved, 1. That as the only means of hurling from power an unscrupulous set of political leeches, and thereby securing to the people honest and undesigning men in office, we lay aside all party names and affiliations, and sever the cord that has hitherto bound us down to party usages.

Resolved, 2. That we look with alarm upon the interference of moneyed corporations in the political affairs of the country.

Resolved, 3. That we scorn the support of any man or party that is guilty of corrupting primaries or elections, by the lavish use of money, thereby biasing the minds and defrauding the will of an unsuspecting community.

Resolved, 4. That we heartily endorse all nominations of good men, made by either party; and only interpose our opposition to unworthy men and unholy causes.

The Convention then nominated the following:

PEOPLE'S TICKET.

For Joint Councilman, James Smith, of Chehalis county; Joint Representative, —— Watkinson, of Mason county; Representative, Wm. B. Kelly; Sheriff, J. Smith; Auditor, John Latham; Treasurer, Wm. Voigt; Superintendent of Schools, John V. Meeker; Probate Judge, S. S. White; County Commissioners, B. M. Spinine, F. C. Miller, A. Walters; Surveyor, J. V. Meeker; Coroner, Samuel Roberts.

On motion, the Secretary was ordered to furnish the OREGONIAN a copy of the proceedings of the Convention, with a request that they be published.

Respectfully submitted,

THE TERRITORIES.

The Walla Walla Spirit, of the 23d, says: "The sudden death of R. P. Olds, an old and highly esteemed influential citizen of this county, who died at his residence near Waitsburg on Tuesday, the 20th, from hemorrhage caused by having a tooth extracted, has caused a wide-spread feeling of gloom throughout the entire community in which he had lived for so many years."

A terrible accident occurred near the upper crossing of the Touchet on Tuesday of last week. A little child of Mr. Smally, aged six years, during the father's absence at Wallula, was playing near some burning brush, when its clothes caught fire, and before any assistance in extinguishing the flames could reach the spot the child was so badly burned that death ensued the following day.

A serious accident occurred at Cram's valley, between Walla Walla and Waitsburg, on Wednesday last. A Mr. McFarland, who resides near the latter place, was riding in a buggy, accompanied by his wife and other members of his family, when from some cause his team took fright and ran away. In his endeavors to check the horses, Mr. McFarland was thrown forward and out of the buggy, both of the wheels passing over his head and injuring him very severely.

On the evening of Saturday, the 17th inst., Levi Leland commenced a course of lectures at Dayton, W. T., by invitation of the Orders of Good Templars and the Red Cross. He drew a full house on each occasion, and the temperance friends subscribed for 15 Temperance Advocates and 50 Temperance Banners, besides collecting $22 for the Order, presenting the Hermit with $25 for himself, and doing sundry and divers things to show their appreciation of the cause and the lecturer. On the 20th Mr. Leland proceeded on his way rejoicing toward Colfax and Lewiston, I. T.

At Dixie school-house, Walla Walla county, Tuesday evening, October 13th, Levi Leland organized a Lodge of Good Templars with 19 charter members. THE VON ARNIM PAPERS.

PRINCIPAL AND PUNGENT POINTS OF THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THE VON ARNIM-BISMARCK-DOLLINGER CORRESPONDENCE.

[From the New York Herald.]

The series of German State documents which the Emperor William and Prince Bismarck are so anxious to recover from Count Von Arnim or from his friends in Germany or abroad contain the instructions which were despatched by Bismarck to Count Von Arnim in reply to despatches the Prince Chancellor received from the Count when the latter filled the office of Prussian Minister in Rome. The contents of these letters go to show that Bismarck, in 1869, did not meditate, by any means, hostility to the Catholic clergy, but that he feared the assemblage of the Vatican Council, and entertained the opinion that Prussia and the German peoples were likely to be affected injuriously in their social interests by its decrees.

Bismarck's Instructions to Von Arnim in Rome.

The first paper in the series, dated May 26, 1869, is in answer to a suggestion made by Count Arnim that the Prussian Government should claim to be represented at the Vatican Council by two delegates (oratores). To this proposal Herr von Bismarck very decidedly refuses his assent. He judges that it would be a serious mistake, and the King (William) shares his apprehension. In the first place, it is not at all likely that the Curia would grant the request to a power which it regards as heretical. Moreover, supposing the two oratores obtained admission to the sittings of the Council, they would be absolutely powerless opposed to the immense majority of bishops. They would be constantly opposed to hostile attacks, occupy a most undignified position, and in the end their presence would do more harm than good; for Prussia having recognized and taken part in the proceedings, would be bound by the resolutions. Even at the time of the Council of Trent, to which Count Von Arnim refers as a precedent, matters stood otherwise. The Curia had not then advanced its present extravagant pretensions; it still recognized the existence of two different spheres, ruled over respectively by the Church and the State. It also recognized a border land where the authority was questionable and had to be determined by compromise, and it even allowed the right of temporal power to interfere in matters ecclesiastic. Since then things have completely changed; but Prussia has not even yet recognized the resolution of the Council of Trent, and will hold equally aloof from the Council of 1870. It has only one rule to guide its action—namely, to allow perfect liberty in ecclesiastical matters, to resist determinedly every pretension conflicting with its prerogative. What the Emperor Napoleon does is utterly immaterial to Prussia. But while M. Bismarck must refuse to interfere with the proceedings of the Council, or to take part in them, he can but approve manif[illegible]tions proceeding from the consciousness of independent power, and serving as warnings to the Curia that its pretensions would not be allowed." Count Arnim is advised "to enter into negotiations for the purpose with the representatives of other German powers, in order that all Germany may appear to act, and really act, in concert."

The second dispatch is dated January 5, 1870. In this document Count Bismarck designates the general condition of things at Rome as so "chaotic" that it is as yet impossible for him to "select a proper basis of operation. He does not share the Ambassador's grave apprehensions of national dangers threatening from the action of the Council, because the Prussian government feels itself strong in administration as well as legislation, and is supported by public opinion and national feeling, which would never submit to Papal arrogance. The Ambassador must not forget that the population of Prussia is mainly Protestant, and thereby affords a powerful support to government in its dealings with the Curia in comparison with other Catholic powers. Whatever be the impending change in the relations between Berlin and the Vatican, Berlin will not be the loser. However, Count Bismarck does not anticipate that things will come to this extreme pass. The organism of the Roman Catholic Church affords a good basis for a mutual understanding, and he hopes it will not be changed. He must still decidedly decline to interfere in the proceedings of the Council. Such interference would be difficult and ineffective. France is on the side of the Curia; England, Russia and Italy are not diplomatically represented. No action in concert is possible with the Austrian Minister. What weight would an "anti-council" of diplomatic representatives such as Count Arnim proposes should be held contemporaneously with the Ecumenical Council carry with it if composed only of the Ministers of North Germany, Bavaria (not representing the other South German States) and Portugal? None at all. No; the resistance to the Papal pretensions must be left to the German bishops alone. Count Arnim is directed to encourage and support them, to indicate to them the position which Prussia takes up, and if he can strengthen this influence by enlisting the Bavarian and Portuguese Ministers in the same cause, so much the better. The German bishops in resisting the Curia will be sure of the government's sympathy and also of its eventual support and protection. The government on its part will not allow itself to be shaken from its attitude of quiet and dignified neutrality. If the Holy See thinks good to alter its relations with it the government can afford to rely upon its own strength for the future.

The same opinions and instructions are expressed in the third dispatch, dated March 13, 1870. Count Bismarck notes with satisfaction the entente previously between the German and the Austrian bishops, and recognizes their right to protest against the application of the vote to dogmatic differences; but it is for the bishops to fight it out with the Curia. The Prussian Government cannot go a step further than the bishops themselves go. As far as they go they may count on Prussian support. The government will protect them from any temporal prejudice arising from their dissentient vote. If any temporal governments were to interfere it would be for Roman Catholic governments to do so. As they do not choose to interfere Protestant Prussia has not the slightest occasion for such a course.

Von Arnim's Letter to Dr. Dollinger.

We publish underneath the text of a celebrated letter which was addressed by Count Von Arnim to Dr. Dollinger at Munich. The knowledge of its contents caused much excitement in Berlin.

PARIS, April 21, 1873.

MOST VENERABLE SIR—The North German Gazette published some days since a report drawn up by me in May, 1869, which did not escape your notice. To my regret the object with which this publication was made did not permit the suppression of those passages which contained the name of Your Excellency. I am, therefore, compelled to ask your pardon for having incidentally, in 1869, made a reference to you in a fashion which did not allow me fully to express my respect for you. You will then more readily forgive me when you recollect that at the period referred to I had not the honor of knowing you. It is said that the report of May, 1869, is a contradiction to the views expressed in a memorial of mine published by the Presse of Vienna. I may observe that I did not seek for the appearance of the publication. I have a copy of the memorial, which differs in some respects from the document made public; but it would be absurd for me to say that the document is apocryphal. The alterations were evidently made for the purpose of affecting certain personages. With regard to the discrepancy of my views in 1869 and 1870 it is very trifling. In 1870, also, I attached less importance to the dogma of infallibility than to the manner in which it was brought out. Had the German bishops from the outset declared that [illegible] infallibility was a self-evident theory, and had consequently no practical value, the governments could not have mixed up in the question. But the attitude of the German and Austrian bi[illegible] in the autumn of 1869, and during the Council, made me realize the full importance of the effort of the Holy See. I was convinced that infallibility was more than a precious but empty vase, destined to ornament the Vatican; that it was a box or Pandora, which eventually sent forth most dangerous ingredients to the Christian world. Consequently I willingly accept the charge that I profited by my experience from May, 1869, to July, 1870. If I learned anything during that time I am especially indebted to the German bishops, who were good enough to show me the consequences of the dogma. On that occasion a totally useless discussion was also raised in propounding the question whether the dispatch of an ambassador to the Council would have given another turn to affairs. Who can now answer that question? As for me, I persist in thinking that the leaders of the undertaking—at least if they had acted as I advised—would have imitated that hero who went to battle to conquer the world and came home because it rained! I regret above all that the conference opened by the Prince of Hohenlohe did not give rise to more serious negotiations. If the abundant weeds which were cultivated by the Council had been crushed in the bud we should not find ourselves to-day entangled in an incomprehensible maze which brings into question what had long appeared to be the common property of Christianity. Adieu, &c., your devoted,

The C[illegible]'s De[illegible] Against Bismarck's First Attacks.

We are enabled to publish the following letter from Count von Arnim, written after his vacation of the German embassy in Paris, in explanation of his communication to Dr. Dollinger, which created a sensation at the Prussian Court, and caused his retirement from the diplomatic service. It reads as follows:—

BERLIN, May 1, 1873.

Having arrived here from Paris yesterday, I find in the newspapers of the capital a series of articles attacking me on account of a letter which I have addressed to Herr von Dollinger. My official position prevents me from replying to these attacks, but I may, nevertheless, already to-day protest against one charge which is continually being repeated—viz, that of having entered upon a controversy with the responsible director of the German policy. I am surprised at the ingeniousness with which so grave an accusation is publicly made, and is intended to be gradually rep[illegible] as an undisputed fact. I see myself, therefore, under the necessity to prove, by stating the circumstances of the case, that I have not taken the initiative in engaging in a public controversy, but that I have been forced to throw off the reserve I have hitherto been able to maintain in spite of all provocations, by a publication relating to myself over which I had no influence. In a foreign journal certain documents have been published which have directed the attention of the public to the history of the Council. It is not necessary for me to inquire who has caused this publication; it is enough to say that I have not caused it. Immediately afterward there were published in a Berlin newspaper official documents which completed the disclosures. Up to this point there is nothing extraordinary in the whole proceeding. The [illegible] published at Vienna contain nothing new. [illegible] nothing that could be disagreeable to the directory of the German policy. Just as little can the "instructions" have surprised those who are even only superficially conversant with the diplomatic history of the last few years. As regards the publication of my report of the 14th of May, 1869, the contents of which are entirely confidential, the matter stands somewhat differently. Every one will admit that this publication is opposed to the traditions, not only of Prussian, but of every diplomacy. I affirm this fact without wishing in any way to criticise. To break with traditions may frequently be necessary, and sometimes be useful. It was not necessary for me to judge why it was necessary in this case, and whether it was useful. But there was one special circumstance which obliged me to take notice of this publication. In my report of the 14th of May, 1860, I had written about Herr von Dollinger in a manner which must deeply hurt that estimable person. My arm had, in a manner, been directed to strike a person who has a right to count me among his warmest adherents. Herr von Dollinger could, however, not know whether this movement of my arm was really altogether involuntary on my part. He could, on the contrary, suppose that I had been informed of the intended publication of my confidential report before it was ordered. I owed, therefore reparation to Herr von Dollinger, and I was obliged to leave it to him to make it public as the hurt had been public. Herr von Dollinger has published my letter, and I thank him for it, for it contains nothing which I have ground to recall or to explain why.

The "controversy" with the responsible leader of Germany's policy has been "read into the letter," and not "out of it." I shall return to this point on another occasion. For to-day it suffices to affirm that I have not come publicly forward to discuss politics. I have been forced to come forward in person to explain my conduct to a man whom I greatly venerate.

Accept the assurance of my most perfect esteem.

THE ALABAMA OUTRAGES.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 8.—The testimony in the Sumter county case closed yesterday. Robert H. Smith, of counsel for the defense, is now making his argument. The decision of the Commissioner will probably be rendered to-morrow.

The evidence is very conflicting; that for the prosecution, except Henry J. Greatlas, Billings' law partner, is colored and the evidence for the defense is part white and part colored. Colored witnesses for the prosecution identified Renfro and Bullock, and swore positively that they were present at and assisted in the killing, along with twenty or twenty-five others.

The witnesses swore they were in the road at the time, and saw the killing. Hillman was not identified, and will probably be discharged. The evidence for Renfro and Bullock to establish an alibi is strong. Several parties swear positively that they were at their respective homes—the nearest nine miles away from the scene—at the time of the killing.

There is a discrepancy about the name of Hillman, he being called in the affidavit and warrant William Hillman, and his true name being Phillip A. Hillman.

The two main witnesses for the prosecution swear that Billings, who was about 35 years old, was killed between sunset and dusk Saturday, August 1, as he was riding along the public road, about one hundred yards from his residence in Sumter county. Both man and horse were killed and found dead Sunday morning. They swear that Renfro came out of the woods and said, with an oath, "Halt!" when others rose and fired. Nothing was proven by the prosecution as to the previous threats of the prisoners against Billings.

The prisoners are quiet and [illegible]ectable-looking young men, and farmers in Sumter county.

About 2:30 P. M. the Com[illegible] rendered his decision, committing Renfro and Bullock to jail without bail, and discharging Hillman. He refused to enter into the [illegible]tionality of the law, and based his [illegible] upon the fact that while the evidence to [illegible] alibi in the case of Bullock and Renfro was strong, there was testimony enough to justify their committal.

Before this decision was carried into effect, the District Attorney asked the Commissioner to hold Hillman until a new affidavit, charging him with the whipping of Wilson Doyle, could be prepared, and a warrant issued for his arrest. This the Commissioner refused. Subsequently, and while at perfect liberty, Hillman told the United States District Attorney that he would appear at 5 P. M. and give bail to answer this new charge.

The Salem Record will be an evening paper hereafter.

Circuit Court for Yamhill county is in session this week.

About forty scholars are in attendance at the Pendleton High school.

Judge Burnett will hold a regular term of the Circuit Court for Lane county, beginning next Monday.

A blazing chimney fire brought out the Salem Fire Department in double quick time last Saturday evening.

A little son of Mr. George Robinson, of Port Blakely, had his leg broken while playing the other day, in Seattle.

The Grand Encampment of the Independent Champions of Idaho and Eastern Oregon held a special session at Boise City last week.

A man working for Watson & Luhrs on Birch creek, in their sawmill, chopped off the thumb and forefinger of his right hand the other day with an ax.

Mr. and Mrs. Parvin were going into Eugene City on Thursday of last week, when the hack in which they were riding was upset and the lady was badly bruised.

Puget Sound furnish[illegible] the rafters [illegible] in the M. E. Church at Salt Lake City. They are twenty-two pieces, ten by twelve inches thick and forty-five feet in length.

E. L. Smith, of Olympia, and M. C. Athey, of Oregon City, went below on the last boat to represent Oregon, Washington and Idaho in the Grand Encampment of Champions of the Red Cross, now in session in San Francisco.

On the 13th inst., the Tacoma saw mill cut 92,150 feet of lumber, an average of 8,000 feet an hour during the 11½ hours working. The best previous day's work, since the first running of the mill, was eighty-two thousand and a few hundred feet.

John Murray went into the dry goods business at Salem by stealing three dress patterns of Mrs. Durbin and selling them to Mrs. Marshall. John's venture was not a success, as he was caught in it, and will probably help to consume the $25,000 appropriation for penitentiary purposes.

The gold shipped by express from Missoula, Montana, from 1st July, 1873, to 1st July, 1874, was a round hundred thousand dollars. The greenbacks paid therefor by the bank has made the county generally prosperous. Probably from thirty to fifty thousand dollars more went to Walla Walla and other ways out of the county.

The Record says some Goth or Vandal or heathen outsider made off with the marble slab on the Speaker's table, placed there to catch the gavel. Some other man of inquiring mind sailed off with the two-story inkstand of the Assistant Clerk of the House, and it is well enough to have the spittoons counted and see how many are missing. Outside barbarians have a keen eye to public plunder, and it was all the honorable members could do to get away with their scanty perquisites.

The Salem Record of Sunday, says: "Sheriff L. C. Rice, of Linn county, brought down the following convicts yesterday and turned them over to Superintendent Watkin[illegible] for the terms for which they were sev[illegible]. Their names are as follows: W. S. Wilson, six months, for extorting money; Ira Cutting, six months, same offense; Geo. B[illegible], three years, for obtaining money und[illegible] pretenses; J. W. Fairchild, two years, for larceny; Frank Upta, one year, for larceny.

Hon. W. R. Dunbar, Grand Worthy Chief Templar, organized a Lodge of Good Templars at Hubbard Station, on Friday evening, the 23d inst. The following officers were installed: L. S. Thomas, W. C. T.; Jennie Vann, V. T.; G. W. Dimick, S.; Douglas Dimick, A. S.; M. Jones, F. S.; A. F. Gleason, T.; Miss [illegible] A. Dimick, Chaplain; S. M. Roff, M.; E. O. Roff, A. M.; J. A. Dimick, I. G.; Busil Dimick, O. G.; D. Vanderwalker, P. W. C. T.; R[illegible] Vann, R. H. S.; Lizzie Gleason, L. H. S.; Rev. G. W. Dimick, L. D.

From the Salem Record we learn that on last Saturday the prisoners at the Penitentiary were all called up and heavily ironed with the Gardiner shackle and a statement made them by the Superintendent. He informed them that after the first day of November next, he should discharge all the guards but four for the day and one night watch. All brick making would be stopped for the next four years. That they would all be kept in their cells except those whose labor was leased to contractors. The Superintendent stated that he was obliged to take this step owing to the small appropriation allowed him for the next two years.

The Statesman says: "One of the convicts of the Oregon State Penitentiary took a stroll last Friday night, from which, up to the time of writing, he has not returned, and so anxious is Superintendent Watkinds for his return to home and friends of the last four years that he offers a reward of $100 for his recovery. The walking gentleman's name is Valentine S. Howe, who was furnished apartments at the expense of the State, December 2d, 1870, having been convicted of breaking open a safe in Jackson county. He was sentenced for six years, and his conduct heretofore has been exemplary in the extreme, and was [illegible] among the trusties, and as [illegible] numerous liberties denied his associates."

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 27, 1874.

THE LOUISIANA TRUCE.

For some time the agreement between the two contending parties in Louisiana appeared to work well, and promised a peaceable and orderly election. All good people, of all parties, were glad when the arrangement was made, and hoped the bond of faith on both sides would make it possible to carry out the programme agreed upon. Since then there have been indications of a disposition among some of the managers to seek technical advantages, in violation of the spirit of the compact, and this has threatened the existence of the armistice. However, no open rupture has as yet taken place, and there is still ground to hope the main features of the conference will remain in force till the election, the emergency for which it was entered into, shall be passed.

From reading the telegraphic accounts of events in Louisiana since the agreement was made, one would conclude the disposition to take technical advantages in contravention of the spirit of the conference, was mostly on the side of the Republicans; but we find in Republican journals of that section charges of a similar nature against the conservatives. It is charged that, while keeping within the letter of the agreement, they are earnestly engaged in perfecting an organization designed to resist by force the installation of Republican officers should such be elected.

If there is any truth in these reciprocal accusations of bad faith, as probably there is truth in them on both sides, the facts are doubtless much exaggerated. It is certain that the feeling of the leading actors in the struggle is not such as to warrant the acceptance of their stories about each other, without many grains of allowance. [illegible], circumstances so trifling that they would attract no notice whatever in any other portion of the Union, are magnified into events of great importance in the excited imaginations of the parties. Actions or words that signify nothing in fact, receive the most alarming interpretations. Thus are the intrinsic difficulties of the case aggravated by the prejudices and fears of those who sit in judgment. If the returning board created by the conference hold together till its designed work is accomplished, that fact will argue well for the self-control of both sides, and will be a favorable augury for the future of that distracted community.

DR. AYER'S PROTOTYPE.

The designs of Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Cherry Pectoral fame, upon the United States Senatorship from Florida, reminds us of the senatorial raid made by an equally famous vender of quack nostrums. In 18[illegible], the Know-Nothing party controlled the legislature of Pennsylvania by a large majority, whereupon Simon Cameron, with a [illegible] the situation that is [illegible] of that venerable statesman, embraced the principles of the [illegible] order, and became, in an incredibly short time, a thorough believer in the doctrine that "Americans should rule America." But this was too much for [illegible] of the old line Whigs, who had [illegible] before the election, and who only [illegible] Democrat; hence, a formidable bolt from the [illegible], which it was alleged had been carried by putting large sums of "Middlesex" where it would do the most good. For weeks the balloting continued, but [illegible] an election, and the smell of corruption that arose around the Capitol of the Old Keystone State at length reached the City of Brotherly Love, and was [illegible] by Dr. David Jayne, the wholesale manufacturer of [illegible], "Vermifuge" and "Sanative Pills." He forthwith packed his carpet bag and took the lightning express for Harrisburg. There he fell in with a legislative sharp, at the time a District Attorney, a loyal henchman of the Winnebago Chief, and now Cameron's candidate for Senator from his own home. This young man told him it was a mere question of money, and as a [illegible] he would have to make a deposit to start with. The vender of patent medicines handed over [illegible], which fact [illegible] leaked out, and threats of investigation [illegible], alarming the pill [illegible] to such an extent that he left by the first train. He denied stoutly all knowledge of the [illegible], and abandoned his aspirations for senatorial honors. It is needless to say the limb of the law kept the money himself, [illegible]. The knowing ones shrewdly suspected that the [illegible] the Doctor had put his money into the [illegible] was needlessly explained to the public, and that it was done for a purpose. Whether this was so or not, one thing is certain, no claim was ever made for it; and two years after, a man who knew not [illegible] about proprietary medicines, but a great deal of the manipulating of legislatures, succeeded in getting into a place [illegible] he kept until he resigned to take a [illegible] in the Cabinet of Abraham Lincoln.

THE CONTEST WITH THE THUGS.

The conflict between barbarism and civilization, which has been waging in various forms for a long time, in the Territory of Utah, grows sharper as civilization draws its cordon of outposts closer about the city of the barbarians. At the opening of the session, which is now [illegible] of the United States District Court for Salt Lake City, Judge McKean called the special attention of the grand jury to that crime which is the distinguishing feature of Mormonism and the chief bond that holds the thugs together. Of course, we allude to polygamy. The Judge charged that persons practicing this monstrous system, whether they do so in obedience to their religious belief or not, are guilty of a grave offense against the laws of the United States, and should be indicted accordingly. The first indictment presented was for this crime, the defendant having five or six concubines. The trial has not yet come on. When it comes there will be a general uproar in the church; that is, in that [illegible] which the able and infamous Brigham Young has built up under the social name of a church for the glory of himself and the devil. There will go up a great cry against the interference of the civil authority with the freedom of worship. There will be dissertations without stint upon the right of every American under the Constitution of the United States—which by the way contains no such guaranty—to "worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience," whether by ranting on the public highways, throwing girl babies to the sacred crows, or keeping a harem. Such shallow nonsense has shielded the Mormon banditti for a long time. They have murdered Gentile emigrants and divided the plunder taken from the dead for a generation, and been saved from punishment through the machinery of the Church. And it is coming to be well understood that the only way to bring this infamous organization of thieves and murderers into obedience, is to strike at the one institution that makes it what it is and keeps it firmly knit together. So the attack is centered upon this point. Let us hope for the good name of our country, for the sake of law and order, for the sake of civilization and Christianity, that there will be no further compromise.

A test case on the Illinois Railroad Law has been before the Supreme Court of that State for several weeks. The plaintiff, who resides at Ottawa, brings suit to recover damages from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Co. for an overcharge of two cents, being the difference between the Company's rates and the tariff established by the State Commissioners. The suit involves the whole question of the right of the State to fix rates of fare and freight, as the right to change or modify charters was not reserved in the Constitution of the State. In this latter particular the Illinois case differs from those Wisconsin cases which have been carried to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Gov. T. W. Bennett, the Independent candidate for Delegate to Congress from Idaho, has good prospects of getting away with his Bourbon antagonist. While Mr. Fenn is devoting himself to expounding the effete Democratic doctrines of 1798, Governor Bennett is rousing the whole people of the Territory to a sense of their present wants, and carrying the hearts of the voters by storm. If the people of Idaho know what is for their interest they will elect Bennett.

Yesterday was the day fixed for hearing the Wisconsin Railroad cases in the Supreme Court of the United States. The decision will be looked for in the Western States with the greatest interest, and the relation of the suits to the political situation in that part of the country makes them one of the most momentous questions submitted to the Supreme Court for years.

The Washington Chronicle remarks: "It is patent to every one that the principal seat of Government in every country attracts the gifted. This is the case more markedly in Europe than here." We should like to see the individual, whether he loafs around a European or an African Capital, who is "gifted" enough to beat "markedly."

The [illegible] after this fashion: "The significance which the October elections possessed in former years is much lessened by the [illegible] of Pennsylvania from the list." Wonder how much it costs, on the average, to get up one of these "significant" elections.

Henry Ward Beecher in the Christian Union, says of the political situation in South Carolina: "The Republican party in that State has so long furnished a covert for swindlers and thieves that we shall be glad to see it overthrown." Read him out of the party at once.

Two full pages of the Washington Chronicle are covered with the list of real property in the National Capital, advertised to be sold for taxes. Who will say after that, that times are not brisk in Washington City?

Two weeks ago ex-President Johnson delivered a speech three hours and a half long at Shelbyville, Kentucky. At last accounts those who listened to him were doing as well as could be expected.

The New York Times, in an article on "An Irrepressible Bandit," commences as follows: "We allude to Cortina, not to Butler." The first time we ever heard any insinuation against Butler.

It has not yet appeared what good thing was accomplished by the Chattanooga Convention. North Carolina and South Carolina sent no delegates, and Florida had but one representative.

The Statesman denounces Senator Richardson, of Marion county, in unmeasured terms, and thinks that honorable gentleman has sold out the Republican party.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

HAVING BEEN IMPORTUNED by my friends to open a DANCING ACADEMY this winter in this city, and having secured the services of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Schwendell, said parties having had long experience in California, the Eastern States and Europe as musicians and teachers of dancing, therefore I take pleasure in announcing to all my friends, and the public in general, that I will open a school of instruction in this delightful and healthy art on MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2d, at Emmet Guard Armory, cor. Front and Alder streets, in the city of Portland. Dancing taught by Joseph Schwendell, systematically, to enable the pupil to attend the most fashionable ball in the world. Lancers and Quadrilles, as danced universally, taught without the assistance of a Prompter. Also, Fancy or Round Dances, and character dances a specialty. Special attention paid to the latest San Francisco style of dancing. A rare opportunity is now offered to the young ladies and gentlemen and children to acquire the art of dancing systematically. Terms moderate.

For admission and particulars apply at Gray's Music Store.

Private lessons given at any time when desired.

All are respectfully invited by
D. K. HALPRUNER.

TO THE LADIES.

Miss Derry dressmaker begs leave to announce to the ladies that she has returned to the city and will be pleased to have them call on Thursday Oct [illegible] (opening day), at her room No 11 Dekum's Building over Clark & Henderson's

A Universal Remedy.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" for Coughs Colds and Bronchial Affections stand first in public favor and confidence this result has been acquired by a test of many years.

Puncheons of quack medicines are drunk every year Some people have a hankering after them If a tithe of what is claimed for them could be believed the Boards of Health might go into bankruptcy there would be nothing for them to do—so it goes—people will take pills and drastic cathartics until they grow too weak for any more or until they use PLANTATION BITTERS when they be come able to go about again and so be restored to health

Sciatica is really Hip Gout and one of the most excruciating diseases which afflict mankind It usually shows itself first on the ball of the foot involving the toes and often the entire leg from the hip joint, If neglected or wrongly treated the disease becomes chronic, and entails a life of misery upon the sufferer By rubbing the parts affected from the seat of the disease which is the hip following nerve which can be easily traced by the pressure with MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT instant relief will be experienced and if persevered in a permanent cure will be effected

If there be one thing which disfigures the face more than another it is sallowness. This results from the clogging of the pores of the skin which always precedes cutaneous disease The only remedy is the regular use of HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM, which opens the pores and restores the bloom of youth by removing the disturbing cause The jaded worn look of many young ladies scarcely out of their teens, results from the use of pastes and unguents, which excite at first but are always succeeded by premature decay of beauty

Strange Head-dress!—A writer of the reign of the Maiden Queen described the prevailing styles of Head-dressing "The hair must be curled frizzled crisped laid out in ropes wreaths and borders from one ear to the other and lest it should fall down under propped with forks and wires, and ornamented with great wreaths of gold and silver, with bugles, ouches rings glass and other such gewgaws" Now a Lady needs only a bottle of LYON'S KATHAIRON to keep the hair healthy, lustrous and luxuriant and a moderate amount of taste and she can excel the historic beauties of the olden times

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY OFFERED

For the relief of the afflicted.

The Surgeons of the NATIONAL SURGICAL INSTITUTE will visit the Pacific Coast on the 15th day of November and remain until the 15th day of December 1874—one month—at their old building No 319 Bush street, between Kearny and Montgomery, San Francisco

They are preparing all the machinery necessary for the Swedish Movement Cure Medical Bull [illegible] and a number [illegible] All who commence treatment during this visit and the many hundreds now under treatment will have the advantages of all the [illegible] [illegible] besides some of the surgeons will this time remain to continue their treatment

THE FOLLOWING LETTER, FROM MR MARSH who is now purchasing in the San Francisco market, will explain itself

GRAND HOTEL 7th October 1874.

DEAR BRADLEY: Arrived safely having had fair average passage. Set at once to work First called on —— Paid them $2,500 on account Got 3 per cent discount on $1,150 not yet due. Mr —— seemed well pleased said they had heard rather unfavorable accounts of us from Portland merchants; going ahead too fast selling goods too low ruined the trade etc Explained the evident animus of such statements Wanted to call round on the other houses before buying, but Mr —— would not let me stir—so started in and bought a splendid lot of stuff at really extraordinary low prices Cleared out 65 pieces of English waterproof and ladies cloth at 9[illegible]—regular price $1 20 These we must sell at $1 per yard and beat the wholesale houses they can't touch them at that figure There is a temporary decline in cotton goods so secured 16 cases leading brands muslins and sheetings Selling these as usual at cost will give us a splendid advantage over all the other stores Got a fine lot Bed spreads 20 per cent under regular price. In Blankets I made a special hit. The house had 12 bales on consignment and being agents for the —— mills did not wish to exhibit them in competition Bought the lot. You may think this rather stiff but when you see the splendid quality of these goods you will at once concede this a magnificent purchase Mark them low and make a noise. Do not let the country storekeepers gobble all these up, as they did the last cheap lot keep them for our regular customers Got two job lines in Dress Good to sell at 56 37½c per yard—30 per cent. less than cost of importing. Secured two original cases of the Buffalo brand silk warp Alpacas at agent's rates. These range in price from 50c to $1 The time is past with us for buying a piece or two. Cleared out several job lines in Flannels Table Linen Napkins Towels etc, all very low Also several other goods that can best be purchased at this house. Dined and wined with Mr —— Splendid house magnificently furnished Met ——

Tuesday—Called early on —— Paid our account in full Same story as to reports The fact is the —— evidently want for us in very blackness of heart, but our name is a tower of strength that the shot of accident nor dart of chance can neither graze nor pierce The robbed that smiles steals something from the thief and we can well smile at these attempts to jostle a brother bearing his road on the rough road of life The [illegible] we make regularly [illegible] them all here They say the Portland men are generally long winded Our getting the Granger trade is also a surprise to many I purchased a fine lot of Shaw's Hosiery Men Shirt Pant Ladies Merino Vests Woolen Jackets Trimming and all fancy good at this house. They were most anxious to sell and a they made considerable reductions in prices I bought largely Send you invoices overland Goods go by John L Stephens The shipment from England will arrive by next Panama steamer The Clothing, Hats etc from New York come by rail When all these are opened out our stock will be the finest on the coast Will back us up to any extent He knows we possess the powers ordained to last. His business has doubled this year This is truly a Golden State with its golden mines golden grain and the golden wealth of living manhood and womanhood pouring in at the rate of three hundred daily from all parts of the civilized and uncivilized world. Would that we had railroads to enable us to share this prosperity

SIXTEEN ACES.

AN OLD-TIME STORY OF A GAME OF "DRAW" IN ALABAMA

[Communication in Turf Field and Farm.]

Sam Oglivie was a gambler by profession and practice but among the planters who frequented his faro bank (and all of those of any wealth or residing within 100 miles of Selma took a turn at it when they could) there was not one who would entertain a question as to Sam's honesty. In that little white cottage almost hidden by the surrounding grove, none but the fairest of faro was dealt, none but the squarest of poker was bet on. When the chips were bought and the cards out each one felt that what fortune meant the pack to bring him would not be interfered with by any manipulation of the cards.

But alas! when was humanity beyond temptation? Adam fell [illegible] Warren fell (at Bunker Hill) and even [illegible] is suspected. One day Sam was [illegible] and he— But let me give the details.

Judge Humphrey, Col. Swain, old Andrews (whose plantation was measured by the thousand [illegible]) and Sol. [illegible] St. Louis, were sitting in Oglivie's front parlor playing a snug little game of draw. All were heavy betters when they held the cards but just [illegible] light, and so were the [illegible] very little for poker, had sat by watching the game rather than going in it. He held a hand of course but his thoughts were rather on the lay out in the next room than on the cards in his hand. Several times he had hinted at abandoning the game, but each [illegible] had insisted on going on, so Sam had politely stifled his impatience and had kept his seat at the table.

As the clock was striking 10 [illegible] pulled from the table and, excusing himself for the moment, left the room. His way was through the [illegible] where lay the sleeping tiger. The table with its lay-out the case, piles of checks, decks of cards, all ready for the players. As he glanced carelessly over them, a sudden thought seemed to flash through Sam's [illegible] A sardonic smile [illegible] his thin cut lips, and his long fingers played with his mustache as if to hide the twitching lips from [illegible] Advancing to the card box, where cards by the dozen packs, in unbroken packages lay piled up, he busied [illegible] breaking wrappers and assorting cards, then, with an [illegible] innocence upon his face but with a "cold deck" up his sleeve, he returned to the poker-table.

In a few minutes it was Sam's [illegible] deal. His hand faltered as he lifted the cards a deuce [illegible] into his lap and, in picking it up, a rapid movement of the long lithe fingers had exchanged the table pack for the "cold deck."

A grain of remorse seemed to [illegible] his heart when he came to serve the cards.

"I can't take a hand this deal, gentlemen. I have got to step around to the hotel for a moment."

[illegible] and the [illegible] were dealt. A good hand, one would say, by the actions of the players. There was a thousand in the pot and a very [illegible] expression on the faces of the players before the drawing began.

Then a singular circumstance was noticed. The Judge only wanted one card, one card satisfied the Colonel, and one card each took [illegible] and Andrews. Odd thought each one, and [illegible] whether they were trying to bite a full or a flush, or were holding fours. But [illegible] glanced at his own hand, and calmly [illegible] confident of his own and [illegible]

The cards served, Sam lit his cigar and started for the hotel. If he had waited he would have [illegible] that was ever done inside of that [illegible] dollars the first bet, $1,500 the second, $2,000 the third, [illegible] from the "age" on the first round. Everybody in and willing to lap his pile. Out came check-books and [illegible] and [illegible] up in his own mind how much his credit was good for among the commission merchants of New Orleans. Check after [illegible] and placed on the table, until there was enough staked to cripple the richest man there, if he lost.

The Judge [illegible] unless it was that he had [illegible] the last check in his book. As he filled that out he remarked, [illegible] gravity [illegible] but one [illegible] that can win that pot, gentlemen, ain't it about big enough? I will see you, Colonel."

[illegible] The pot was big [illegible] of all [illegible] trembled a little as they [illegible] of the cards piled there and how near the call was to make three of their comrades [illegible]

Two more sights and a call brought the game to a [illegible] more than one forehead, and the fingers that griped the cards tightened perceptibly as the critical moment approached. And [illegible] to be turned [illegible] the hungry [illegible] ing too intently upon the pile on the table.

The [illegible] Colonel hardly looked up as he gently laid down his hand. "Four Aces, gentlemen!"

Then Andrews, with distended eyes and pursed up lips: "Four aces for me!" and the cards were laid upon the table to verify the claim.

Dashing his spectacles from his Roman nose to his perspiring forehead, the Judge sank back in his seat and [illegible] from face to face around the board. As his eye met Lovett's he partially straightened himself and said "Sixteen aces, as I am a sinner," and again four aces lay upon the [illegible].

They waited for Sam that night, but he did not return to the cottage.

Geo. H. Williams and the Russian Mission.—Chicago, October 20.—A Washington special says there is a very strong opinion among the closest friends of the Administration in this city, that Attorney General Williams will retire from the office of the Attorney General at the beginning of the next session of Congress, and that his name will be sent to the Senate for the mission to St. Petersburg. The delay in the appointment of a successor to Jewell is accounted for on the ground that Williams will not allow his name to be sent to the Senate unless he is certain of confirmation, and the Senate will be carefully [illegible] together, to see if he can pull through.

The Peruvian Coolie Trade with China to be Abolished.—Panama, October 10.—Dates from Lima to the 27th ultimo bring news that the text of a treaty between Peru and China, signed at Tientsin on the 26th of June, has arrived at Lima. By this [illegible] ment the traffic known as the Coolie [illegible] is practically abolished and a more humane system adopted. The treaty will be submitted shortly to Congress for its sanction.

There seems to be a very quiet condition of things prevailing in monetary circles to-day and the banks are able to meet the current demand quite readily. The rates of discount present no important fluctuation on first-class paper of which there is not very large quantities offering to day. As long as the brisk movement in the breadstuffs market continues we may expect that outside borrowers will find more or less difficulty in obtaining free accommodations but on the whole no serious pressure is likely to be felt though a considerable degree of closeness in financial circles may rule for the next three months.

In the European money centers money at latest advices continues plentiful though from various causes there is better employment for it than a month ago and rates have gone up somewhat.

The Monetary and Mining Gazette of London reports, in its issue of September 19th, that the report of the Bank of British Columbia shows an available [illegible] dividend for the half year at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, with an addition of £3,400 to the reserve (thus raised to £22,400), leaving £1,561 to be carried forward. [illegible] the corresponding period of last year the dividend was of similar amount. £4,000 was added to reserve and £2,674 was carried forward.

The comptroller of the U. S. Treasury has made a statement of the resources of the various savings banks of the [illegible] as he could obtain and it is believed that a full report would show but little short of one billion dollars in the various savings institutions in this country. This enormous sum of savings deposits speaks well for the thrift of the American people and is the best evidence [illegible] remunerative system of labor in this country, [illegible] belong to the laboring classes, and when so much economy is displayed there must be great happiness and contentment and a large degree of virtue and morality.

The Granger Ships in California.

The San Francisco papers of the 20th in regard to the suspension of Morgan's Sons state that thus far this season the firm have loaded and dispatched 17 cargoes of wheat for the Grangers. Five of these were sent off in August, eight in September and four thus far this month. The Grangers who have participated [illegible] Colusa, Collinsville, Dixon, [illegible] Merced, Modesto, [illegible] Stockton, Turlock and Yolo. [illegible] These [illegible] is carried over 20,000 tons wheat. With [illegible] they were all chartered to arrive at £4 and upwards. The same firm have [illegible] charter to load [illegible] 6d, and one was [illegible] Some of these [illegible] partially full [illegible] probably involves the canceling of the charters of these ships, and the loss of $100,000 in freight money on account of these [illegible] thing will apply to [illegible] to arrive under charter to the house. Of the ships already sent away, the wheat will be holden for the freight, if not otherwise provided for, and that will make a difference of another $100,000.

P[illegible]

There is still a [illegible] degree of activity noticeable in the [illegible] markets. [illegible] however, seem quite [illegible] with large offers which are freely [illegible] The [illegible] of those who are loading [illegible] by the fact that the bark Lauretta, which began to discharge ballast last Wednesday and to load on Thursday of last week, has received nearly a full [illegible] going down the river this evening. The ship [illegible] and the City of Dublin both carrying large lots of extra brands [illegible] will [illegible] their berths in a few days more. The business of buying wheat is very brisk, farmers who do not intend to hold for higher figures being anxious to get it off before the rainy season begins. Quotations still remain at $1 [illegible]

Oats are also coming forward in considerable quantities and find ready sale at 40@42c ₽ bushel. In other products there are but few changes to note. Hay, feed, potatoes, apples, onions and all other vegetables are in abundant supply at our last quotations. Butter is duller. Bacon and eggs are in active demand at the [illegible] figures given last week. Fresh meats are in fair supply at current rates.

We notice that the first vessel of the California grain fleet of this season has arrived in Liverpool. The vessel was the ship Thomas Dana, loaded by [illegible] Meyer & Co., with 730 tons of wheat, and 1,000 tons of Oregon flour.

Shipping Intelligence.

The bark [illegible] has dropped down the river and will complete her cargo and go to sea this week.

Fourteen grain laden vessels have left this port this season against eight up to the corresponding date in 1873, and four in 1872.

The steamship John L. Stephens will be due from [illegible] to-morrow night.

The schooner Oregonian is discharging cargo at Flanders' wharf.

The bark Lauretta, with a cargo of grain, is about ready to go down the river.

The ships Dovenby and City of Dublin are taking on large quantities of flour.

The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg is about due from Honolulu, having left that port September 25th.

WHICH MEANS THAT THE UNDERSIGNED are prepared to received money on deposit, and allow eight per cent interest on three months and 9 per cent on six months deposits. Depositors can draw their money however at any time by losing the interest and one hundred per cent of the principal! We keep no hired help, live on cheap diet, buy our wearing apparel at a second hand clothing store, don't close up Saturday afternoons at 1 o'clock, and by strict economy and taking more interest in our business than the Banks, are enabled to offer extra inducements over them. Depositors will be doubly secure by leaving their money with us for immediately on its receipt we will loan it out, and a burglar sharp enough to go through our vaults and steal the notes would avail himself of the first good opportunity to return them and never attempt their collection on so small a per centage!!

If your neighbor owes you, make a note of it, and sell it to us.
